To examine prognostic factors for disease free survival and overall survival in node negative breast cancer patients, we retrospectively analyzed 172 patients who underwent surgery between 1978 and 1993 in a single institution. All patients had negative resected axillary lymph nodes and they were treated with a combination of surgery, radiation, and/or chemotherapy. Histologic type, histological grade, nuclear grade, medullary type, S phase fraction (SPF), ploidy pattern, and DNA index were examined for their prognostic significance. The mean follow-up was 5.1 years. The 5-year disease-free survival rate was 87.5%, and the 5-year overall survival rate was 90.0%. SPF > 18.4% and DNA index > 1.16 significantly correlated with a poor prognosis in both disease-free survival and overall survival. A significantly poorer prognosis was also seen in the patients with a histological type
